Public day tickets for Singapore Airshow 2014 now on sale Improvements in security checks and shuttle services to enhance visitors' experience

SINGAPORE, 31 October 2013 – Tickets for the Singapore Airshow 2014 public days will go on sale through SISTIC from Friday, 1 November. The event, Asia's largest airshow and one of the top three aerospace and defence shows in the world, will be open to the public on 15 and 16 February 2014 at the Changi Exhibition Centre (CEC).

During the two days, visitors can look forward to a wide range of exciting activities which will include static aircraft on display and aerobatic flying displays by various teams, including Singapore's very own Republic of Singapore Air Force (RSAF) Black Knights who will return to amaze visitors with their aerobatics. There will also be meet-the-pilot sessions where visitors can take photographs and get the pilots' autographs.

Tickets for Singapore Airshow 2014 are priced at S$22* for adults and S$9* for children between three and 12 years of age, and include a two-way Airshow Shuttle transfer from Singapore Expo. Admission is free for children below the age of three.

To enhance visitors' experience at next year's show, the organisers, Experia Events, have taken measures to provide even quicker and easier access to the event venue. It will be using Singapore Expo as a one-stop handling centre. Visitors to the Singapore Airshow will only need to go through security clearance at Singapore Expo before boarding the shuttle bus to CEC, giving them direct access to the show on arrival. This would reduce the demands on the security clearance lanes at CEC, providing faster and smoother access for all visitors to the Airshow. The organisers will also be increasing the number and frequency of shuttle buses between Singapore Expo and the Airshow site at CEC.

Mr Jimmy Lau, Managing Director of Experia Events, said: "Singapore Airshow is committed to providing a better experience for our visitors with each new edition, through constant
